Robson, BC, Canada – April 11, 2009 - Let's Find A Way Society out of the Kootenays, along with the help of two local song writers have taken their project to new heights and produced a documentary on the history of this great charity.

Let's Find A Way gets its Canadian Premier at ReelHeART International Film Festival (RHIFF) June 22-27, 2009.

Directed by Waleed Abdulhamid and co-produced by local activist Robin Tomlin shows us how a talented group of musicians and singers from different ethnic cultures and backgrounds can come together for a common cause.

This cause being the devastating effect HIV/AIDS has had on aboriginal children worldwide. These affects cover children left homeless, orphaned, uneducated, without health care and objects of exploitation to those who prey on these helpless children.

One such story is of a girl who was taken from her family at a very young age, forced into becoming a soldier in a rebel army, and fought in the famous Battle of Blood River only to see her own brother killed in this fight in South Africa.

You'll hear song and music done in 13 different languages, showcasing remarkable talent from places like Africa, China, Russia, Portugal and even Canadian First Nations. Music styles range from hip-hop, to spoken word, opera to rock.

Let's Find A Way (an AIDS anthem) will premiere Thursday, June 25 at 9:30PM, Main Program 'A', Innis Town Hall, Innis College, 2 Sussex Avenue, Toronto, ON, M5S 1J5 1 Block South from St. George Subway.

Tickets are $10 - Advance Tickets on sale online April 27th at www.reelheart.com
